Man and the world. Individual and society. Nature and technology. Me and the community. Traditions, customs, taboos.

This is life, universal with its problems and yet comprehensible in the simplicity of its solutions. All over the world, in Estonia, in Ecuador and Eritrea. And also in many places, where nations yearn for the chance to mould their individuality into an independent state.

For the 25th time Pärnu Film Festival has taken up these themes to be dissected and to be offered to the audience to ponder on at the place and on the air of television. This is a mission, cultural, educational and enlightning. Here, in Pärnu, in Estonia and most of all, for us, Estonians, who have been on the other side of the joys and pains of the rest of the world, for half a century.

We are much richer now and Pärnu Film Festival has become the traditional place to derive some more for this richness. If not in any other way, then as people and as citizens we have begun to understand this world better in our hearts. Which is, supposedly, one of the aims of art.

Virtuous film impressions, now, as well as in the next 25 years.

Toomas Hendrik Ilves
President of the Republic of Estonia

Inimene ja maailm. Üksikisik ja ühiskond. Loodus ja tehnoloogia. Mina ja kogukond. Traditsioonid, kombed, tabud.

See on elu, universaalne oma probleemides ja samas mõistetav oma lahenduste lihtsus.

Kõikjal maailmas, Eestis, Ecuadoris ja Eritreas. Ja sealgi, paljudes kohtades, kus rahvad siiani ihkavad võimalust enda omapära sõltumatuks riigiks vormida.

Pärnu filmifestival on võtnud juba 25. korda need teemad lahatat, vaatajatele koha peal ja teleri kaudu kaasa mõlemiseks pakkuda. See on missioon, kultuuriline, hariduslik ja valgustav. Siin Pärnus, Eestis ja eriti meile, eestlastele, kes me olime pool sajandit teispool muu maailma rööme ja vaevasid.

Me oleme nüüd palju rikkamad ja Pärnu filmifestivalist on saanud traditsiooniline koht sellele rikkusele lisa ammutamiseks. Kui mitte muul viisil, siis inimeste ja kodanikena oleme oma südameis seda maailma paremini mõistma hakanud. Mis vist ongi kunsti üks eesmärk.

Mõjusaid filmielamus, nii nüüd kui järgmisel 25 aastal.

Vabariigi President

Dear Film Makers and Guests of the Festival!

Pärnu Film Festival is a cause celebre of the cultural life of our town in summer.

Film makers and fans of many different nations come together in Pärnu for the 25th time already, all these years the point person has been untiring Mark Soosaar with his team.

Even the subject matter of the documentary films has been the same through all these years but it is infinite – the life of people living in most different places, the life in its most colourful aspects, indications and variations.

The international Film Festival of Pärnu is a film party which brings the big world into our little town, makes us think and compare – how different and yet, how alike we are, wherever we live.

It unites. The eyes of cameras of the documentarists are turned to places, activities, customs and penetralia to which our gaze would hardly reach in the speedy world.

Enjoy and understand, understand and enjoy!

Have a nice and catchy week in 760-year-old Pärnu!

Head filmitegijad ja festivalikülalised!

Pärnu Filmifestival on meie linna suvise kultuurielu üks tähtsündmusi.

Filmitegijate ja filmihuviliste rahvusvaheline seltskond koguneb tänavu Pärnusse juba kahekümne viiendat korda, kõik need aastad on eestvedajaks olnud väsimatu Mark Soosaar oma meeskonnaga.

Festivalil linastuvate dokumentaalfilmide aineski on läbi kõigi nende aastate olnud sama, ent lõputu – maailma kõige erinevamais paigus elavate inimeste elu selle kõikvõimalikes võrvides, ilmingutes ja variatsioonides.

Pärnu Rahvusvaheline Filmifestival on filmipidu, mis toob suure maailma meie väikesesse linna, paneb mõtlema ja võrdlema – kui erinevad ja samas, kui sarnased me oleme, kus me ka ei elaks. See liidab. Dokumentalistide kaamerasilmad vaatabad paikadesse, inimtegevustesse, kommetesse ja hingessoppidesse, kuhu meie pilk tormakas maailmas muidu vaevalt et ulatuks.

Nautige ja mõistke, mõistke ja nautige!

Ilusat ja meeldejäävat nädalat juba 760 aastases Pärnus!

How should We Go on, Dear Film Folks?

People like anniversaries. Birthdays, jubilees, holy days or national days. These are milestones to measure the path passed. By the way, a hundred years ago real milestones stood even by Pärnu River, for the loggers to evaluate the length of their journey!

Our Film Festival has reached the 25th milestone. Is it a little or a lot? It depends how and to whom to compare. It is a bit more than one third of the lifetime of an Estonian man – is it a little or a lot, it depends a lot on emotional evaluation. Compared to life that was given a start on the Earth two and a half billion years ago twenty five years is no more, no less than a hundred million times smaller interval. A teardrop in the ocean of time! But what has mankind achieved in the last 25 years? Exorbitantly much. Firstly, it has substituted a great deal of its unique and mysterious brain with an artificial brain – the computer. And joined hundreds of millions of artificial brains into a common brain world over – the internet. And all that in just one generation!

Thanks to mobile electronics we can communicate to our species all over the World in real-time. But we have to pay a hard price for it – little fragments of nations disappear one by one, their languages are forgotten and unique cultures vanish.

The main element of the XXI century, without which we would not have any modern means of communication, space flights, television or modern medicine, is electricity. And who knows, would we have any electricity at all if Georg Wilhelm Richmann had not been born in Pärnu 300 years ago, in 1711. The man who invented the first electrometer in the World, who simultaneously with Benjamin Franklin and Mihhail Lomonossov, started to explore electricity in the atmosphere, who was luckily and unfortunately the first scientist in the World who managed to catch lightning and who died at the same moment... What would we be today if mankind had not made the most of electricity? In honour of one of the greatest scientists of Estonia the festival's jubilee program contains films on the theme Life with and without Electricity. To ponder about the development of human society in the era of electricity, just a little longer than a century.

There is one more person the jubilee festival would like to remember and to honour in deep greatness. That is our Latvian colleague Andris Slapins who was killed two decades ago, his camera running on his shoulder. In the name of our freedom the talented film maker sacrificed his life for the documentary on the attacks against Riga.

Can we value our freedom, won for the blood of our neighbours, with due respect, and can we use it? For example, to support the others in need of help, say, nations without a state of their own, or fragments of nations melted to too little pieces, who cannot stop their culture and language vanishing any more?

Let's think about it while watching the opening documentary of our Festival – Songs of the Livonians by Andris Slapins.

Mark Soosaar
Chief of the Festival

Kuidas edasi, hea filmirahvas?

Inimestele meeldivad tähtpäevad. Olgu need sünnipäevad, aastapäevad, usu- või rahvuspühad. Need on kui verstapostid, millega mõõdetakse läbitud teed. Muide, füüsilised verstapostid seisid sadakond aastat tagasi isegi Pärnu jõe ääres, et palgiparvetajatel oleks lihtsam oma teekonna pikkust rehkendada!

Meie filmifestival on jõudnud 25-nda teetähiseni. On seda vähe või palju? Oleneb, kuidas ja kellega võrrelda. Kas veidi rohkem kui kolmandik eesti mehe elueast on vähe või palju, sõltub suuresti emotioonalahest hinnangust. Kaks ja pool miljardit aastat tagasi Maakeral tekkinud eluga võrreldes on kakskümmend viis aastat ei rohkem ega vähem kui sada miljonit korda väiksem ajalöök. Veepisar ajameres! Aga mida on inimkond viimase 25 aastaga suutnud saavutada? Hullupööraselt palju. Kõigepealt muidugi on ta suure osa oma ainulaadsest ja salapäraste võimeteega looduslikust ajust asendanud tehisaju – arvutiga. Ja ühendanud sajad miljonid kunstajad üleilmesse ühisajju – internetti.

Ja seda kõike vaid ühe inimõpolve jooksul!

Me saame tänu mobiilsele elektroonikale suhelda reaalajas oma liigikaaslastega ümber Maakera. Aga kiire tehniline arengu eest peame maksma väga karmi hinda – üksteise järel kaovad väikesed rahvakillud, ununevad nende keeled ja haihtuvad omanäolised kultuurid.

XXI sajandi tsivilisatsiooni peamine element, ilma milleta poleks meil ei moodsaid sidekanaleid, kosmoselende, televisiooni ega moodsat arstileadust, on elekter. Ja mine tea, kas täna elektrit olekski, kui Pärnu linnas poleks 1711. aastal ehk 300 aastat tagasi sündinud Georg Wilhelm Richmann. Mees, kes leiutas maailma esimese elektromeetri, kes üheaegselt Benjamin Franklini ja Mihhail Lomonossoviga alustas atmosfäärielektri uurimist, kel esimesena maailma teadlastest õnnestus välk kinni püüda ning nii oma õnnehetkel pikse läbi surra... Kes me oleksime täna, kui inimkond poleks elektrit enda teenistusse rakendanud?

Austusest ühe suurima Eestis sirgunud loodusteadlase vastu on meie juubelifestivali kavas filmid teemal „Elu elektrita ja elektriga“. Et mõtiskleda, milline on olnud inimühiskonna areng vaid veidi üle sajandi kestnud aktiivsel elektriajastul.

Veel üht meest tahab juubelifestival meenutada ning sügavas tänutundes austada. See on meie läti kolleeg Andris Slapins, kes kaks aastakümmet tagasi hukkus, töötav kaamera õlal. Andekas filmilooja ohverdas Riia tulistamist jäädvustades oma elu meie vabaduse nimel.

Kas me aga oskame meie naabrite vere hinnaga kättevõidetud vabadust vääriliselt hinnata ning kasutada? Näiteks teiste abivajajate toetamiseks, olgu need siis riigita rahvad või imeväikseks kokkusulanud rahvakillud, kes enam ei suuda oma kultuuri ja keele haihtumist peatada?

Mõelgem sellele, kui vaatame meie festivali avafilmi – Andris Slapinši „Liivi laule“.

SONGS OF THE LIVONIANS

1976, 20 min

Directed and photographed by Andris Slapins

Narration by Aivars Freimanis

Music by Egils Straume

Produced as the diploma work of Andris Slapins for VGIK (The Moscow Film Institute)

A poetic audiovisual essay from the Latvian coast of the Baltic Sea where „lives a very small Finno-Ugric ethnos which could be placed under one tree.“ So describes the history of Livonians in his narration the celebrated film maker Aivars Freimanis, the long-term colleague of Andris Slapins. In the documentary, several folk songs in the Livonian language are recorded, among others the most legendary Do You Know the Land which Begins from the Livonian Coast..., performed by Katrina Krasone. The folk song which originates from Normandie and was „domesticated“ in the 20th century as their own folk song by the Livonians as well as by the Estonians.

LIIVI LAULUD

Režissöör Andris Slapins

Poeticiline vaatefilm Kuramaa rannikult, kus elab üks väga visa rahvas. Nii visa, et pärast katku ja Põhjasöda, pärast kaht maailmasöda mahub ikkagi veel ühe puu alla äral. Sedasi kirjeldab liivlaste filmi saatetekst, mille autoriks on Aivars Freimanis, tundt läti filmilooja ning Andris Slapins kauaaegne kolleeg Riia Kinostudiost. Filmis on jäädvustatud mitu liivikeelset laulu, neist legendaarseim on Katrina Krasone esituses kõlav normandia rahvalaul, mille "kodustamisega" said hakkama mitte üksnes liivlaste, vaid saime meiegi, eestlased:

Kas tunned maad, mis Sliterest
käib Läänemere kaldale
ja minu õuelt Luži külas
viib Kolkanina neemele?
See on see maa, kus minu häll
kord kiikus ja mu isadel,
sest laulgem nüüd ja ikka ka,
see ilus maa on minu sünnimaa...

Katrina Krasone didn't know that her beloved folk song was born in Normandia.
Katrina Krasone ei teadnud, et tema armastatud rahvalaul oli süündinud Normandias.

THE DREAM TIME

94 min, 1991

Directed, recorded and edited by Andris Slapinsh (Siberia/Latvia)

Researched by Yelena Novik and Eduard Alekseyev

Produced by Andris Slapinsh and Yelena Novik

The documentary was recorded as a visual anthropology fieldwork study in the following Siberian locations: in Yakutia 1980, in Chukotka Peninsula 1981 and 1983, in Khabarovsk and Primorski Krai territories 1984. The crew was very small: in Yakutia A. Slapinsh, Y. Novik, E. Alekseyev, in other locations A. Slapinsh and Y. Novik. The film was unfinished due to the tragic death of Andris Slapinsh. In January 20, 1991, he was shot to death while shooting from afar Soviet Black Berets storm to the Interior Ministry Building in Riga.

Extracts from the narration:

We have called our film The Dream Time. This is a way how the Australians of the tribe Aranta termed the mythical time of prime creation when the foundations of existence were laid and the rules of human community life were created. Orientation towards myth, faith in spirits inhabiting nature determined the life of men in all traditional societies.

The vast territory of Siberia stretching from the Ural mountains to the Pacific Ocean is inhabited by 29 indigenous ethnoses. A relatively short time ago the shamanic beliefs and rituals took up key positions in their life. We have conducted ethnographical observations among quite a number of these peoples - the Chukchi, the Eskimos, the Nanays, the Yakuts, the Evenks, the Udegeys.

Many people we met during these years are not alive any more, the fact is that the work on the film lasted, with interruptions, for 10 years - from 1980 till 1990.

Will this lapse of time give us a chance to understand who the shamans really are? Are they magicians? Or healers? Or improvising poets and musicians? Or experts in ritual traditions and keepers of them? Each generation of researchers answered these questions differently....

In Chukotka, nearly each yaranga (skin tent) had its drum. Both old men and middle-aged people are excellent players and are fond of singing their songs "presented" to them or "inherited" from their relatives - with the accompaniment of a drum. A drum is not a mere musical instrument for the Chukchies. It was believed that its voice, or voices, to be more precise, are intelligible not only to men but also to animals and spirits. In each yaranga a drum is kept as a sacred thing of the family together with images of ancestors, fire-making boards and amulets....

Unlike the tundra dwellers who called themselves "reindeer people", the life of the coastal Chukchi and Eskimos once wholly depended upon sea hunting. Nowadays hunting is no more the only source of food: people live in modern stationary settlements and can buy food in shops. But here and there one can still find sacrificial places with the skull of a walrus and with an altar for performing rituals of worshipping sea mammals as this sanctuary in the area of the settlement Enmelen...

In the past it was believed that walruses and seals "were coming themselves" to meet a hunter's bullet because, awaiting them on the shore, was a ritual gulp of dainty fresh water which the sea animals could get only if they "went on a visit to men". The meat and the hide fell to the hunters' lot, and the souls of the animals "returned to the sea". This is of course an idealized picture intended for softening the ruthlessness of the struggle for life in these severe parts of the globe. But indeed, as elderly Eskimo people said, the whales at the time of seasonal migrations were passing at a distance of only one or two hundred metres from the shore, and it made hunting much easier and created a myth that the animals "were coming themselves" to their two-legged sworn brothers...

...With the blood of the sacrificial reindeer the "anointment" of the whole household is effected. According to Bogoraz, the signs of the anointment "are used to make the human face look like the face of the spirit which protects the reindeer: the spots above the eyes imitate the spirit's eyes, and the spots on the cheeks represent its ears". The shepherds who were not with the family the whole summer are the first to receive the "anointment", and then comes the turn of the other nearest relatives...

...Tatyana Konstantinovna Khodzher from the Nanays' settlement has shown the traditional methods of applique work. It is also true that at present purchased braid and tape are increasingly frequent neighbours of hand-made embroidery. The ornaments and designs on clothes, household utensils and dwelling houses bear traces of numerous ethnic contacts which were made throughout ages in the Amur area...

...In the Ulchi settlement we were lucky to meet old women who remembered the "bear festivals". The Ulchi, like the Ainu and the Nivkhs, reared a bear in a cage, then ceremonially killed it upon a special ritual platform. It was deemed that this way it "goes away" to the "taiga people" - to bears, and, being grateful for the hospitality, it will provide the Ulchi with their benevolence and friendship...

...In the Nanays' settlement we got acquainted with Nyura Sergeyevna Kile, born in 1907. Six years ago she began to feel pain in her legs, and old men recommended her to resort to the ancient method of healing - shamanizing. They helped her to provide herself with a drum and a belt with metal pendants. Since that time she "holds on to the old law" that is from time to time she appeals to the spirits and begs them for health. She explained to the spirits that the young people (she meant us) came from far away, that they are taking interest in all she does and she asks the spirits not to send diseases either to us or to her, to strengthen her house, to give health to her husband. Nyura Sergeyevna shamanizes only for herself within the narrow family circle...

...Another Nanays' shamaness - Maria Petrovna Beldy - born in 1924. She permitted us to attend the ritual of healing an old woman - Gini Geiker by name. After an apoplectic stroke which happened a year ago, she could not walk unassisted. The shamaness and the sick lady discussed Gini's dream and came to the conclusion that most likely it was the spirit of her deceased woman-relative which was to blame. Marya Petrovna's decision was not a standard one: instead of going alone in search of the stolen soul and leave the role of a passive observer to the patient (shamans usually do so), she ordered her patient to accompany her on the way to the angered spirit...

Andris with a mighty shaman on the riverside of Amur, in the summer of 1988.
Andris koos võimsa šamaaniga Amuuri kaldal, suvi 1988.

...The Yakuts, as many other Siberian peoples, thought that the Universe consisted of three worlds: the upper, the middle and the lower one. The middle world is the world of people whereas the upper and the lower worlds are inhabited by spirits. The way to the world of the spirits is symbolized by the sacred rope - sitii. It is twined of horsehair and then wisps of mane hair are tied to it with alternation of black and white colours. In this case there must be seven pairs of such wisps - by the number of the heavenly layers which the shaman has to pass while getting to the abode of the spirits - abaahylary.

The sea-gulls must know the direction in which they have to fly. Therefore the rope-sitii is tied to their necks, and the birds are put up on the poles with their heads turned strictly to the north-east where the spirits in charge of eye diseases live. Here, in the regional rhyakh, we met a man whose fate was not an easy one. Nikita Alexeyevich Parfyonov was born in 1903, he has six children. Before becoming a shaman, Nikita Alexeyevich had passed the initiation ceremony, the so-called "cutting of the body" during which the spirits "were eating" his body bit by bit. In the 30-ies his well-begun shamanic practice was interrupted: he was subjected to repressions because shamanism was severely persecuted in those years...

...The Evenks are one of the most ancient peoples of Siberia. Their ancestors lived here as far back as the late Stone Age. Now some innovations have appeared in the everyday life of the Evenks: iron stoves, European clothes, tarpaulin tents instead of the traditional choom, portable radio transmitters which are used to get in touch with the outer world. But the mode of life of the reindeer-breeders remains basically unchanged.

This numerous family roaming from place to place with the herds of reindeer, is headed by the aged granny - Matryona Petrovna Kurbaltinova. According to her she is 97 years old. Matryona Petrovna is one of very few still practising Evenk shamans. She arranges seances only for the members of her own family, and only in cases when there is a drum near at hand. When her elder son fell ill, the drum was hidden far away in the taiga and she understood that she would not manage to cure the son. Her brother-in-law who got burns was more lucky...

...At the end of the seance Matryona Petrovna fell into a trance, and her relatives stopped joining in singing. Having fumigated her with smoke, they help her take off the shamanic outfit and regalia...

...The last person to take the baton is a novice at shamanizing - Tatyana Kadygovna Pianka born in 1916 who appeals to the spirits in her song under the supervision of the leading shamaness. Thus all the participants of the ritual, assisting and supporting each other, are getting a close contact with the spirits' world which at the same time unites them into a single whole.

UNENÄGÜDE AEG

Režissöör Andris Slapinš

Andriš Slapinš, kaasas vene etnograafid Jelena Novik ja Eduard Aleksejev, rändas aastatel 1980 - 1984 mööda Siberi avarusi ning jäädvustas tšuktšide, eskimode, nanaide, jakuutide, evenkide, udegeede šamaane. Kogutud unikaalsest filmimaterjalist sündis film, mille pealkirja võttis Slapinš Austraalia aborigeenide, täpselt Aranta suguharu uskumusest, et maailm onloodud müütilisel, unenäolisel ajal. Tänaseks on linateos „Unenägude aeg“ muutunud hindamatuks kultuurilooliseks dokumendiks, sest jäädvustatud šamaanid on lahkunud taevalt jahimaadele. Nad on endaga kaasa viinud uskumused ja maailmapildi, millest vaid väike osa õnnestus jäädvustada.

ALMOST MARRIED

60 min. 2010, Turkey/Italy

Fatma, a nice woman in the age of 20, ran away from Turkey to Italy. She couldn't stay any longer under supervision of her authoritarian father. Here, in Italy, she gains her freedom and love. Her photographic work with his boyfriend Davide concerns the misfortune of the women in Anatolia. Fatma's dream is to marry her Italian boyfriend and to return with him to Turkey, to face her father and ask for his permission for wedding. Her cousin Pinar, for example, couldn't get a Swedish visa to join her first husband and was quickly married off to another cousin. She had no choice, but she still believes arranged marriages are the best. "Love makes you blind," says Fatma's father, who contends that the family would never make a wrong decision. This offers Fatma little hope, and the tension is obvious on Davide's face when he and Fatma prepare to ask her hand in accordance with the proper, traditional custom. The young couple is consistent because everyone has to fight for his/her own happiness.

Selleks sõidavadki nad koos Türgimale. „Armastus teeb pimedaks“, ütleb isa tütrele. Ent ometi on noored oma tahtmises järjekindlad, sest igaüks peab oma õnne ise välja võitlema.

FAMILY INSTINCT

58 min. 2010, Latvia

Nominated

An unbelievable family drama takes place in a countryhouse, close to the big seaport town Ventspils in Latvia. Young man Valdis is imprisoned for abuse and his sister Zanda lives on her own. Their two kids grow without father. Too much alcohol and too little money are key causes of the constant arguments between Zanda, her mother, her stepbrother, and her neighbor. The kids are all waiting for Valdis who is their father and uncle at the same time. Zanda admits she can't let him down. At the same time, she also knows that she is in danger of losing custody of her children as a marriage between brother and sister is illegal. She wonders if her alcoholic neighbor might be able to offer her a better life. Maybe to escape with him for search of happiness?

PEREINSTINKT

Režissöör Andris Gauja

Uskumatu, kuid tööstüsündinud lugu leib aset väikeses maamajas Ventspils lähistel Lätimaal. Noor mees Valdis istub vanglas ja tema lihane öde Zanda kasvatab nende kaht ühist last. Kodune elu koos alkoholi ja igapäevase raha- ning toidupuuudusega toob pidevalt kaasa arusaamatusi ning lausa vägivalda Zanda ja tema ema, kasuvenna ning naabrite vahel. Lapsed ootavad koju Valdist, kes on neile nii isaks kui onuks ning keda ema plaanib maha jäätta. Kas väljapääs oleks põgenemine, õnne otsimine koos naabrimelhega?

PEOPLE I COULD HAVE BEEN AND MAYBE AM

53 min. 2010, The Netherlands (filmed in UK)

Nominated

What would it be like to enter into the life of a complete stranger? That's the premise of this docu-fiction which was shot entirely on a cell phone. In order to break through the wall of urban anonymity, the film maker talks to various people on the streets of London, out of whom three main characters materialize: a Brazilian beauty named Sandrine, who's looking for a husband, a drug addict named Steve, and Precious, a singer and poetess. There is no script: what begins as a vague idea gradually metamorphoses into a confusing project, and filmmaker Boris Gerrets begins to have grave doubts about his own role in all of this. When he ends up in bed with Sandrine, he goes from observer to participant in his own film. All these four characters seek happiness outside of themselves, in another person. They forget that in this world everybody is a lonely one, and happiness could be quite close – inside of you!

INIMESED, KES MA OLEKSIN JA EHK OLENGI

Režissöör Boris Gerrets

Mis oleks, kui siseneda täielikult teise inimese ellu, muutuda senitundmatuks inimeseks? Selline oli Boris Gerretsi mõttækäik, kui ta alustas filmivõtteid mobiiltelefoniga. Et läbi murda suurlinna anonüümususest, alustas filmilooga vestlus Londoni tänavaelanikega. Tema kangelasteks kujunesid kolm esmapilgul väga kauget persooni: Brasiliast pärit iludus Sandrine, kes otsib endale meest; siis narkomaan Steve ning secjärel neegritar Precious, lauljatar ja poetess. Kui ühel hetkel selgub, et filmi autor on armunud oma kangelasse Sandrini ning leiab end tema sängist, siis on aeg ekaanileilmuda ka Boris Gerretsil endal. Nii ongi filmis neli ekaanipersooni, kes kõik otsivad õnne teises inimeses. Nad unustavad, et igaüks on siin ilmas suurel määral ikkagi ka üksik ja õnn võib olla lausa käülatuses - peidus sinus eneses!

PINK SARIS

96 min. 2010, UK (filmed in India)

Nominated

Sampat Pal, an illiterate, low-caste woman, set up the Gulabi Gang because of all the feelings of injustice and helplessness she'd experienced in her life. Before she was 12 years old, she was sent to a remote village to marry and was bullied by her in-laws. She rebelled against the stringent village rules and ended up on the streets with five young children. Setting up the Gulabi Gang was her act of inspired desperation. Hundreds of women, all dressed in bright fuchsia saris, would gather to make a corrupt policeman enforce the law or to challenge a violent husband. Sampat, the 'Commander in Chief' of this group, is now famous throughout Uttar Pradesh. She doesn't need to summon the Gulabi Gang anymore, she uses her own fame to get results. But fame is a perilous thing and it means that Sampat is now moving on to another stage in her life. If you haven't experienced any love in your childhood, if you have been abused, it's very hard to care truly about other people.

At the heart of Pink Saris are the four young women who come to Sampat for help. They are at a great crisis and see Sampat as their last hope. We watch these stories unfold; we know they are stories which are being played out countless times across all over India.

ROOSAD SARID

Režissöör Kim Longinotto (Inglismaa/India)

Sampat Pal on kirjaoskamatu naine, kes kuulub alamasse kasti. Vaevalt 12-aastaseks saanud, saadeti ta kaugesse kolbakülla, kus pandi mehele ning kus lapsnaine pidi taluma orjalikke alandusi. Sampat põgenes, temast sai tänavatüdruk. Läbinud uskumatuid kannatusi edaspidigi, sai Sampatist kirglik vöritleja hüljatud naiste õiguste eest. Filmi keskmes on roosasid saridis kandvate noorte naista armulood. Kim Longinotto kaamera jälgib, kui okkaline on lihtsa hindu naise tee oma õnne poole.

WE NEED HAPPINESS

54min, 2010, France, Russia

A snowy road leads the spectator away from Russia and, suddenly, we are in the tiny border village of Gawila-Botan in the autonomous Kurdistan Region of Iraq. Cruel history has taken its toll on families, and widows and children have suffered. Svetlana, a woman who found her destiny and love here, is part of the story. Her astounding life as a citizen of the Soviet Union and the matriarch of a Muslim family is revealed in long takes interspersed with moments of silence.

ME VAJAME ÕNNE

Režissöörid Aleksei Jankovski ja Aleksander Sokurov (Venemaa/Kurdistan)

Pikk lumine mägitee viib Venemaa avarustelt ära Kurdistani, Iraaki. Siin elab vana vene naine Svetlana, kes juba varases nooruses leidis oma armastuse – kurdi mehe. Hoolimata vanemate vastuseisust lahkus Svetlana oma nõukogude kodumaalt ning läks õnne otsima uuel, temale täiesti tundmatul maal. Svetlanal tuli sisse elada teistsuguste uskumuste ja tavade maailma, kus inimelu väärtsust oli teine kui tema lapsepõlvemaal. Svetlana maksis õnneotsingute eest väga kõrget hinda – ta kaotas peaegu kõik oma lähedased. Elavad ju kurdid siiani olukorras, kus suur osa probleeme lahendatakse läbi surma.

VILLAGE WITHOUT WOMEN

83 min. 2010, France and Croatia (filmed in Serbia and Albania)

In Southwest Serbia, atop a mountain and four kilometers from the nearest road, the Jankovic brothers hold down the fort in the womanless village of Zabrdje. Zoran, Dragan and Rodoljub, along with their neighbor, Velimir, represent the entire population of what was once a vibrant rural community. They live without running water, roads, a hint of a woman's touch. Zoran, the eldest brother, dreams of marrying a woman capable of handling life in Zabrdje. Despite his efforts, he fails to convince a Serbian woman to join them in village. Zoran's friend Danko succeeded in finding a gorgeous wife by crossing the border to Albania. As Zoran sees their unlikely relationship blossom into love, he decides to follow his suit. For Zoran, Albania is the only place left to find a bride. With the war wounds from Kosovo still present, Serbs and Albanians are far from healed. Zoran has the opportunity to extend the olive branch to the "enemy".

The documentary follows Zoran in his search of happiness.

NAISTETA KÜLA

Režissöör Srdjan Sarenac (Serbia/Albaania)

Serbia edelapiiril asub mägiküla Zabrdje. Elab selles külas vaid neli meest, kellest kolm on vennad: Dragan, Zoran ja Rodoljub. Siinsetes majades pole kaasaaegseid mugavusi, aga mis kõige hullem – puudub ka hoolitsev naisekäsi. Zorani sõber Danko leidis omale hea külgeluu naabriigid Albaaniast, kus mõned külad on vaid õrnema soo päralt. Nii otsustabki Zoran, et hoolimata kahe riigi vahelisest vaenust, tuleb ka temal ulatada käsi sümboolse oliivioksaga ning järgneda sisehäälele. Kas ja kuidas Zoran Albaaniast oma sinilinnu kinni püüab, seda Srdjan Sarenaci film piilubki.

HAPPINESS WANTED

ÕNNEOTSIJAD

ARRANGED HAPPINESS

58 min. 2010, Germany (filmed in India)

ARRANGED HAPPINESS is a non-political story of love and hardship set in Kashmir Valley where the Muslims and Hindus lived in peace throughout great swaths of history prior to last century's partition separating India from Pakistan. The film's loving portrayal of one Muslim family's search for a groom for their daughter. It provides an intimate and compelling counterweight to a widely held perception of Islam in the West. In an era where the rival nations of India and Pakistan – each with its own storehouse of nuclear weaponry – promote tension and amplify cultural racism, Dar-Creutz's film conjures up an unexpected dose of humanity and mesmerizing beauty where few have thought to look for it.

KORRALDATUD ÕNN

Režissöör Daniela Dar-Creutz

Dokfilm Kashmiri orust, kus moslemi perekond otsib oma tütrele peigmeest. Kunagi elasid siin hindud ja moslemid sõbralikus rahus, nüüd aga on pinge nii suureks kasvanud, et nii Pakistan kui India on end tuumarelvadega varustanud. Dar-Creutzi film püüab leida inimlikkust ja mõistmist läbi traditsioonide hoidmise ning jäädvustamise.

AUTUMN GOLD

94 min. 2010, Germany, Austria

Nominated

Five European athletes are preparing for an important competition in Finland. Austrian gold medalist Alfred (100) is training for the discus event and will be happy with nothing less than a gold medal. He considers his age no reason to slow down: "I don't feel anything like a hundred. Of course, my body keeps getting older. But as long as it still works, that's not such a problem." For German Ilse (85, shot-put), Swede Herbert (93, hundred-meter), Czech Jiří (82, high jump) and Italian journalist Gabre (age classified, discus), age is also no obstacle. The documentary follows these athletes in training, in their daily activities. They earn respect with their attitude towards life and their exercises, which are by no means without risk. They simply refuse to give up on life. Herbert: "I see this as a way to lengthen my life. If I were to stop today, I'd be dead within a month." A funny film about love of sports as a metaphor for love of life.

SÜGISKULD

Režissöör Jan Tehaven

Huumoorigas film kõrgesse ikka jõudnud meestest ning naistest, kes valmistasid tähtsaks võistluseks Soomes. Saja-aastane austria kunstnik Alfred treenib kettaheiteks ning tahab kindlasti võita kuldmedalist. „Ma ei tunne ennast sajasena. Kuni mu keha töötab, pole vananemine mulle probleemiks“, ütleb Alfred. Rootslane Herbert arvab, et sport aitab tal elu pikendada. Armastus spordi vastu muutub filmilooja Jan Tenhaveni käe all armastuseks elu vastu.

DADDY'S GIRLS

56 min. 2010, Israel (filmed in Israel and Germany)

Yaron splits his life between Germany and Israel, circulating between three homes, three women and two children. When his daughter finds out how he lives, she embarks on a journey to decipher, for the first time in her life, who her father really is. She finds a man chased by the fear that his time is running out, juggling his passion and faithfulness, seemingly oblivious to the heartache he leaves in his wake. This sometimes shocking, sometimes humorous, but always intimate insight presents his way in search of happiness.

The desires, emotions, feelings and relationships of seekers of happiness have been filmed over a period of one year. Could they find a new homeland in Ireland?

MÖÖN

Režissöör Ivars Zviedris

Kümned tuhanded lätlased on asunud elama ja töötama Iirimaa. Kuidas õnneotsimine kaugel kodumäest, eemal lähedatest, mõjub inimeste tunnetele, emotsioonidele, unistustele, seda uribki Ivars Zviedrise dokfilm.

Nominated

Film director Jørgen Leth seeks beauty, compassion, ecstasy, poetry under the skin, in the souls of living female human beings: „New places. Now, new locations. The same journey... We are searching for something... We don't know how to frame the erotic. I don't know exactly how you find it. It's not a definition, that's not it. It's about the search itself. Finding some moments in memory and in the present. We study woman, we study women in different places, in São Paulo, Rio de Janeiro, in Belém, Panama City, Jacmel, Dakar, in Manila. Watching her, her legs, her shoulders, her skin, her hands, her eyes and her mouth. We watch the unknown smile..."

Me ei tea, kuidas kadreerida erootikat. Need on vaid hetked mälust ja olevikust. Vaadeldes tema jalgu, õlgu, nahka, käsi, silmi, suud, me vaatleme tundmatut naeratust...“

THE WAY UP

52 min. 2009, Israel

During Ceausescu regime's rule in Romania abortions had been illegal. As a result, Romanian orphans became full as many mothers were unable to keep their children. This is where Lian grew up until the age of four. An Israeli couple chose to adopt Lian - a beautiful girl with huge but sad eyes - amongst many of the other abandoned children. Shortly after, it became clear that the home she had been brought to was abusive, and at the age of 14 she ran away and found herself living in the streets. This is the personal story of a street girl's struggle for survival, led by their dream of reuniting with biological mother. A dream, common for many street kids all around the world.

ÜLESMÄGE

Režissöör Shirly Berkovitz

Ceausescu režiimi ajal oli Rumeenias abort keelatud. Tagajärjeks oli, et lastekodud said pilgeni täis. Lian kasvas ühes sellistest. Kuni üks iisraeli perekond ta neljandal eluaastal lapsendas. Tüdruku sirgudes selgus, et valik oli olnud vale. Lian jooksis kasuvanemate juurest minema. Mõned aastad toitis teda lootus leida pärisema, siis järgnes elu tänavatüdrukuna, kust väljarabelemine nõudis tohutut pingutust. Lian leidiski oma õnne, kuid siis.... Lugu, milliseid leidub kõikjal üle suure ilma.

BANARAS ME

119 min. 2010, Spain (filmed in India)

Varanasi (Banaras) is one of the most ancient and sacred cities in the world, a city where a certain primitive echo still survives. Place of residence of Shiva, a creative and destructive God of everything known, where senses and liberation walk hand in hand. Another city, the one we make out through haze, smoke and sand, live inside Kashi, City of Light. For a whole year – in a tireless cycle days and nights run with their internal rhythm causing drastic changes in the appearance of the Indian microcosm. Voices, looks, music, hands of men and rituals to the Gods; indifference is forbidden in this city. Everyone has his place and time. Each one builds his search.

I DREAM OF MUMMERS

26 min. 2011, Bulgaria

Decho (68) and Uncle Ivan (75) live in the small village of Sushitsa in southern Bulgaria. Decho is 68, and Uncle Ivan is 75. They have been friends for as long as they can remember, and for over 50 years, in late summer, they dress as mummers (called "kukeri" in Bulgaria) and take part in the "kukeri" dance in the village square. A custom whose origins are hidden far back in the past, a tradition that has become part of the history of an entire nation. This custom is found in many places in Bulgaria, but here, in this village, it has almost completely preserved its authenticity and can still be seen as it was performed centuries ago. For people here, this is the biggest feast of the year. Bells are tinkling, costumes and masks are taken out of drawers and attics. Everything looks just like in an old newsreel from 1942 found in the National Film Archives, footage of the same celebration in the same village...

MA IGATSEN JANTIMIST

Režissöör Adela Peeva

Decho (68) ja onu Ivan (75) elavad Bulgaria lõunaosas asuvas Sushitsa külas ning hilissuvvel panevad nad selga kummalised kostüümid. Rahvas tuleb kokku, et üheskoos vihtuda kukerii tantsu, sooritada muistseid rituaale. Õnneks on Rahvuslikus filmiarhiivis alles ringvaade samast külast ja samast maskipidustusest, võetud filmile 1942. aastal. Saab ju siis võrrelda, kuidas kombed ja rituaalid enam kui poolsajandi jooksul muutunud on.

ITCHOMBI

52 min. 2009, France (filmed in Togo)

Itchombi, a circumcision ritual for which all members of the Solla people have gathered, is taking place in a village of the Keran region in Togo. Itchombi is the word referring altogether to the knives, the young men and the ritual itself. This year, Deou and his next of kin are preparing for the ceremony, dutifully abiding with tradition. However, for this time they have requested appropriate hygiene conditions, in order to avoid any risk of STD or HIV infection. The whole community, already in effervescence because of the celebration, excitedly debates about this topic.

ITCHOMBI

Režissöör Gentille M. Assih

Togo Kuningriigi Kerani piirkonnas elavad sollad, kes tänaseni peavad kinni noorte meeste initsiatsoonirituaalist. Sõna "itchombi" tähistabolla keeles mitmeid nähtusi või esemeid: nuga, noori mehi, aga ka rituaali ennast. Filmi peakangelaseks on noormees Deou, kes oli nõus ümberlökamise jäädvustamisega rahvusvahelise filmiprojekti tarvis. Deoul on heameel, et tema ümberlökamine aitab kaasa iidse traditsiooni ellujäämisele. Filmi loomisaastal (2009) pööravad sollad suurt tähelepanu hügieenireeglitele, sest STD ja HIV infektsioonid on joudnud ka siia, Togo saarele.

May I Enter is a documentary essay in which the Afro-Brazilian religion Candomblé is researched as well as experientially evoked in a very personal way.

Besides being a religious practice, Candomblé became a tourist spectacle; a source of inspiration for local writers, artists, film makers, dancers and musicians. The cult was interpreted as a token of black resistance and emancipation; a fortress of female power and matriarchy in a "macho" culture; an exemplary "tolerant" religion that supports gay rights; and a money-generating industry, selling all kinds of spiritual products and services.

KAS TOHIN SISENEDA?

Režissöör Kostana Banovic

Afro-brasiilia religioon Candomblé on omamoodi rahvakultuuri fenomen, mis on inspireerinud paljusid kunstnikke, kirjanikke. Temas on mustade vastupanulikumist ning emantsipatsiooni, see on omamoodi kindlus naiste ning geide õigustele.

Candomblé' rituaalides ja fetišites on ka parasjagu kommersi.

TELEGRAMS FROM BURYATIA

28 min. 2010, Estonia (filmed in Russia)

Nominated

Lama Karam Dorzh, (Igor Nikolajevich Arduyev) lives in a small village Kyren located in the Republic of Buryatia which is an autonomous part of the Russian Federation. As a miracle, the Buryats have saved the language of the native members of the indigenous community of the Buryats. On the other hand, the official Russian state culture has added a lot, sometimes quite ridiculous elements to the culture of the Buryats, an ethnus of thousands years old.

TELEGRAMMID BURJAATIAST

Režissöör Mirjam Matiisen

Laama Karam Dorž, ilmaliku nimega Igor Nikolajevitsh Arduyev, teenib oma igapäevast leiba Burjaatia Vabariigi väikese külakese Kõreni budismitemplis. Selles Mongooliaga piirnevas Venemaa paigas, keset Siberi avarusi, on veel säilinud kohalike põliselamlike oma keel, kombed ja traditsioonid. Samas on kaasaegne vene riigikultuur lisandud omalt poolt kohati üsna koomilist vürtsi burjaatide aastatuhandete pikkustele traditsioonidele.

YAKEL 3D

74 min. 2011, New Zealand (filmed in Vanuatu)

Nominated

Yakel 3D explores the fragility of one of the last very original culture, using the hi-tech cinematic device of 3D. Set in a remote Vanuatu tribal village and shot over a three year period, this is the remarkable story of 108-year-old Chief Kowia near the end of his long, eventful life. Survivor of tribal wars, colonization, epidemics and WWII he's rejected the modern world in favor of a life free of electricity, material goods or money. They are happy as the jungle provides them with all life's necessities. But Chief Kowia worries: What will happen to his people when he is no longer there to guide? Can his culture stay alive? Or will his people be tempted by greater riches and leave their tribal life behind?

YAKEL 3D

Režissöör Rachael Wilson

Kolmemõõtmeline dokfilm Vanuatu saarelt, filmitud kolme aastaringi jooksul tänapäeva kõige moodsama filmitehnikaga, ruumilise kaameraga. 108-aastane suguharu pealik Kowia on mures, kas ka pärast tema lahkumist jagub kogukonna tahet elada ilma elektri, raha ning moodsate esemeteta? Või on kiusatus muuta elustiili ikkagi otsustav?

MAN & NATURE

INIMENE JA LOODUS

ALL FOR THE GOOD OF THE WORLD AND NOSOVICE

82 min. 2010, Czech Republic

"Using cars to change the world" is one of the mottos of the South Korean automobile manufacturer Hyundai which produces 300,000 cars each year with the help of the inhabitants of the Czech village Nosovice. The factory looks like it came from another planet, the parking lot and the huge drab shoebox-shaped factory contrasting shrilly with the rolling green hills that surround them. Once, the local people grew vegetables here. One of the landowners resists to the last and erects a statue made of rusty car parts and a copy of a letter containing a death threat. Czech director Vít Klusák's previous film work includes co-directing Czech Dream, in which he created a huge media campaign to entice Czechs to a fake hypermarket. In this film, Klusák follows his fight against consumerism and destruction of landscape.

Režissöör Vit Klusák

Üks Vit Klusáki eelmisi filme „Tšehhil unistus“ oli provokatiivne – see jutustas liba-hypermarketist. Oma uues dokis seisab filmitegija nende pölluharijate ja looduskesõprade poolel, kes ei soovi oma elukeskkonda hüüglasliku Korea autotehase Hyundai ehitamist.

BETWEEN THE HARVEST

30 min. 2010, USA (filmed in Costa Rica)

Nominated

"Between the Harvest" is the story of Ostional, a small coastal community that relies on a legal harvest of olive ridley sea turtle eggs (as once a month the arribada produces thousands of simultaneous ridley nestings). Told through the eyes of both people and turtles, the documentary delves into one of the biggest controversies in the marine world: is this harvest an exemplary conservation project? While the community continues to fight for control of its only crop (a seemingly endless supply), the real issue complicating their lives boils down to the simple question: what will they do if the turtles are gone tomorrow?

LOODUSANNID

Režissöör Scott Drucker

Kostariika rannikule tulevad munema suured merekilpkonnad. Kohalik rahvas korjab nende mune, mis müükse kalli hinna eest vanahärradele, kes eelistavad seda kaupa viagrale. Kas traditsiooni jätkamine ei kahjusta ookeanielustikku, küsib filmi autor. Appi tulevad teadlased, kes selgitavad traditsiooni hoidmise tähtsust. Inimese ja looduse vahelise ajaloolise seose läbiraiumisega tuleb olla väga ettevaatlik.

FJORD

24 min. 2009, Norway

The film Fjord was shot in Nærøyfjorden, one of the narrowest fjords of Western Norway. The fjord is one of the main tourist attractions in Norway, and the landscape was included in UNESCO's world heritage list in 2005. The filmmaker Skule Eriksen spent more than a year trying to capture the atmosphere of the landscape with deep cultural history. The documentary is poetic and rhythmic in its approach to the landscape. The speechless piece of art is speaking with fantastic images, created by nature and by film maker Skule Eriksen.

IF A TREE FALLS:A STORY OF THE EARTH LIBERATION FRONT

85 min. 2011, USA

Focusing on Oregon-based activist Daniel McGowan, If a Tree Falls relates the tale of a mild-mannered, middle-class citizen driven to extremes and brought to trial on charges of terrorism for his participation in ELF-related arson plots. Detailing activists' past disillusionment with peaceful public protest and the police brutality and inertia that often followed the film poses difficult questions about the possibility of effecting change from either within or without the system, and examines the changed stakes for revolutionaries today in a world fixated on branding all dissenters as terrorists.

IVAN AND CAPITAN

15 min. 2011, Uruguay, Sweden (filmed in Uruguay)

Cabo Polonio in Uruguay lies on a cape in the Atlantic, a small village, seemingly deserted. Only one path leads there, and only the lighthouse has electricity. Back and sides dunes as far as the eye can see. This is a film about a site in the course of nature as the only dialogue.

At the tip of the cape breaks the ocean against the rocks, the last frontier. There are the sea lions, in thousands, just waiting. The dogs Iván and Capitán herding cows, or curiously exploring sea lions. Summer arrives, and with it the people. The scene changes with a brutal power grab.

THE PIPE

83 min. 2010, Ireland

Breathtaking aerial shots reveal the beauty of County Mayo, an apparently untouched area on the west coast of Ireland. But all this natural beauty is in danger: in 1996, a gas field was discovered right off the coast, and Royal Dutch Shell is itching to pump it dry. In order to get at the gas, the company plans to lay a pipeline directly through the fishing village of Rossport. The residents are up in arms, but the Irish government is offering Shell a carte blanche. That said, the authorities tactfully attempt to convince a fisherman to give up the battle. After all, fishermen are blocking the world's biggest pipe-laying ship with their little wooden crab boat. It's like David up against Goliath.

TORU

Režissöör Risteard O'Domhnaill

Iirimaa lääneranniku merepõhjast leiti 1996. aastal suur gaasimaardla, kuhu Shell tahab chitada gaasitoru. See aga lõöks segi elu Mayo maakonna rannakülas Rossportis, kust on kavandatud toru risti läbi viia. Kohalikud elanikud ning kalurid töösevad tagajalgadele, aga kas nad suudavad oma väikeste puulaevadega takistada maailma suurima ja võimsaima torupaigalduslaeva tööd?

THERE ONCE WAS AN ISLAND: TE HENUA E NNOHO

80 min. 2010, New Zealand (filmed in Papua New Guinea)

What if your community had to decide whether to leave their homeland forever and there was no help available? This is the reality for the unique Polynesian community in Takuu, a tiny low-lying atoll in the South Western Pacific. As a terrifying tidal flood rips through their already damaged home, the Takuu community experiences the devastating effects of climate change first hand. Two scientists, oceanographer John Hunter and geomorphologist Scott Smithers, investigate the situation and consider the impact of climate change on communities without access to resources or support. The islanders Teloo, Endar and Satty consider whether to move to an uncertain future in Bougainville or to stay on Takuu and fight for a different, but equally uncertain, outcome.

The internet and its online communities intend to bring people closer together and to connect them. Yet, surprisingly, it seems that the virtual world confronts these so-called vloggers more than ever with their own loneliness. The documentary allows a viewer to discover this contemporary phenomenon and focuses on the experience of a body within this virtual space. By means of visual material gathered from online sources, the film makers create a unique poetic realm in which thoughts, fears, desires and worries, shared via the webcam, merge together.

LETTERS FROM THE DESERT (EULOGY TO SLOWNESS)

88 min. 2010, Italy (filmed in India)

The world runs. Hari walks. His worn-out shoes cover long distances in the desert to deliver messages that are closed in letters with precious handwriting for addressees who live in remote villages, cloistered in a forgotten temporal dimension, out of the modern world. The letters talk about loves, weddings, successes and deceases. Those that bear news of death are immediately recognisable, the envelopes with the right corner torn off, those that Hari reads out in the doorway, and then tears to bits, because bad news must be destroyed, scattered, deleted forever.

In a world in which time is luxury, speed is synonymous with efficiency and civilization, the story of Hari is a return to slowness, to the harsh nature of the Thar desert. Until some weird metallic towers arrive with electricity and cell phones, with a new speedy civilization...

SOLARTAXI

68 min. 2010, Germany

What began as a childhood dream is now an epic 18-month adventure that spans the globe. More than a few have embarked on an 'around the world' adventure, but no one has ever done so powered exclusively by the Sun. The story of Louis Palmer and the around-globe voyage of his home-made solar-powered car is the skeleton of a documentary by Erik Schmitt.

Full of surprises and apparently insurmountable obstacles, his journey begins in the summer of 2007. Along the way, Louis and his Solartaxi meet princes, movie stars, politicians and scientists, but most importantly, encounter ordinary people, showing them, mobility with the mere power of the Sun is possible.

PÄIKESETAKSO

Šveitsi noormees Louis Palmer teeb teoks oma lapsepõlve unistuse – ehitada ainult päikeseenergial töötav auto ning sõita sellega ümber Maakera. An intimate portrait of an elderly artist couple Ger Lataster and Hermine van Hall, filmed by their son and daughter in law. The documentary depicts the last year that the seriously ill Hermine and Ger live together. They constantly stumble – thanks to Ger's deafness and Hermine's dementia – over misunderstandings that drive them to desperation. Art is their remaining safe haven. Ger tries to keep on painting whereas his muse loses track of things. After Hermine's death returning to painting becomes a matter of survival for Ger. The film is an ode to love and the power of art.

TALES FROM THE LAND OF OVENS

41 min. 2008, Poland

Tales from the Land of Ovens... – an ordinary title and an extraordinary story. These tales were secretly written by 30 prisoners of Auschwitz Concentration Camp. For their own children. They also illustrated them beautifully. These tales are the subject of the film.

The concentration camp was so full of evil that one could start doubting the existence of good. But it survived, if only in seemingly trivial booklets about little chicks and flowers. There were about thirty daring men who wrote and illustrated them in the proximity of crematorium chimneys. One of them was ordered by the Nazis to segregate the belongings of the people killed in the gas chamber. He found a fairy tale left by a child, who was gassed with others. That was when they decided to create tales for their children. These tales kept them alive...

WHAT'S IN A NAME

70 min. 2010, Belgium (filmed in USA)

Nominated

A humorous portrait of New York City's most notorious performance artist Jon Cory (a.k.a. Rose Wood). Despite Jon's aim of overthrowing social norms by acquiring breast implants and becoming a "gender terrorist", his 82-year-old Jewish mother is just as delighted with her son's newest acquisitions as he is. What's in a name reveals a warm and daring perspective on the ambivalence of the human psyche through the portrait of an extraordinary character, who stands out in a city where average does not exist.

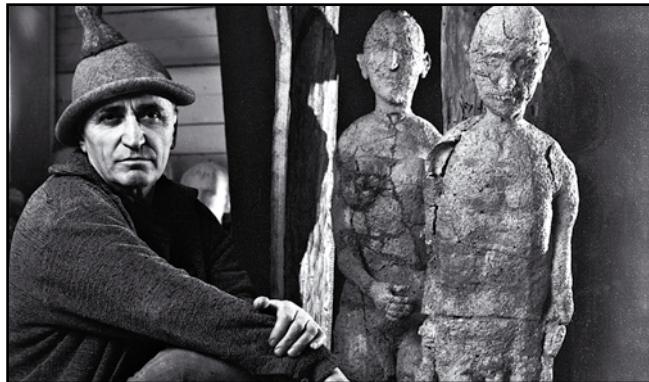

MILLE NIMEL

Režissöör Eva Küpper

Humoorikas filmiportree New Yorgi performansikunstnikust Jon Cory'st, kelle vanale juuditarist emale meeldib, et pojast on saanud pärast kunstrindade siirdamist „sooline terrorist“. HOLY FIRE

49 min. 2010, Estonia (filmed in Estonia, Ukraine, Romania)

Nominated

Ruslan is a Ukrainian musician, who met an Estonian girl Terje five years ago at Viljandi Folk Music Festival. For the sake of love Ruslan left behind his homeland as well as the well-known folk-rock-band Haydamaky and moved to Estonia. In five years he has learned Estonian, created a family and a band playing Estonian-Ukrainian folk music – Svjata Vatra. As the five other members of his band knew Ukraine only through Ruslan's stories, in the summer of 2009 they decided to ride to the Carpathians – on a musical expedition, in order to devour Ukrainian temperament, the beauty of the mountains and music.

Svjata (in Ukrainian) – holiness, awe, respect, in other words – celebration in one's soul. Vatra (in Ukrainian) – a ritual bonfire, lit in the mountains only for special occasions; also the spark of life that brings a person to beauty, to rejoice, to love – and to share it all with the others.

PÜHA TULI

Režissöör Erik Norkroos

Ruslan on ukraina muusik, kes viis aastat tagasi kohtus Viljandi Folgil eesti neiu Terjega. Armastuse nimel jättis Ruslan maha kodumaa ja Ukraina tundud folk-rockansamblit Haydamaky ning asus elama Eestisse. Viie aastaga on ta ära õppinud eesti keele, loonud pere ning eesti-ukraina folkansamblit Svjata Vatra. Kui seni teadsid ansamblit viisi liiget Ukrainat vaid läbi Ruslani juttude, siis 2009. a suvel asus bänd autoga teele Karpaatidesse. Eks ikka selleks, et ammutada endasse ukraina temperamentti, sealsete mägede ja muusika ilu.

Svjata (ukraina keeles) – püha, aukartus, austus ehk pidu hingest. Vatra (ukraina keeles) – rituaalne lõke, mida tehakse vaid erilistel puhkudel mägedes. „Vatra“ tähistab ka elusädet, mis paneb inimese pidevalt tegutsema, röömustama, armastama ja muusikat looma – et kogutud ilu kõigi inimestega jagada.

POR EL FLAMENCO

52 min. 2009, Israel (filmed in Israel and Spain)

The journey of a loving Israeli couple into the depths of the flamenco scene in Granada, Spain, becomes the personal journey of a man to the roots of his own sadness. A film about passion and loss.

FLAMENCOLE

THE RED SUFI

59 min. 2010, Germany (filmed in Pakistan)

Nominated

Pakistan is considered to be one of the most dangerous countries of the world. Film maker Martin Weinhart follows German anthropologist Jürgen Wasim Frembgen, an international authority on Sufism in Pakistan, on his pilgrimage from Lahore to Sehwan Sharif to the holy shrine of the popular Sufi saint Lal Shahbaz Qalandar. Every year the anniversary of his death is celebrated like a wedding. Shiites and Sunnis, Hindus and Christians, women and transvestites, rich and poor are melting for five days of the „Mela“ and bring the whole town to a state of trance. They defend their culture with devotion and ecstasy against terror and death.

PUNANE SUFI

Režissöör Martin Weinhart

Pakistani loetakse üheks maailma ohtlikemaks riigiks. Dokumentalist Martin Weinhart saadab Pakistanis saksa antropoloogi Jürgen Wasim Frembgeni, rahvusvaheliselt tunnustatud sufismi autoriteeti, palverännakul sufi pühaku Lal Shahbaz Qalanderi pühakotta. Pühaku surma-aastapäeva tähistamine näeb välja kui üks suur ja löputu pulm. Šiidid ja sunnid, hindud ning kristlased, ka uskumatud – kõik tähistavad „Mela“ ning langevad linnade kaupa transsi.

THE CORRIDOR

7 min. 2010, Belgium (filmed in UK)

Nominated

For 5 days the film crew followed a donkey during its visits to old people in nursing homes in England. From home to home, from room to room. The donkey was welcomed warmly, with greetings, songs, strokes, childhood stories, poems, and laughter. Until the donkey entered the room of Norbert, a man who lost his ability to speak. While editing, the film became shorter and shorter. What is left is perhaps a bas-relief disguised as a painting, disguised as a film.

KORIDOR

Režissöör Sarah Vanagt

Filmigrupp veetis viis päeva koos eesliga, kes külastas hooldushaiglat, puuetega inimeste kodusid, et vanuritele ja haigetele lohutust ning seltsi pakkuda. Ülesvõetud rikkalikust videomaterjalist jääb filmi aga vaid üks episood – eesli kohtumine Norbertiga. Mehega, kes on kaotanud könevõime. Tema eest köneleb nüüd film. NADIEZHDA

32 min. 2011, Lithuania

The entire world in Nadiezhda's life fits into small room in an old dwelling close to a new block of flats and her daily routine. She wakes up every morning to repeat the same daily rituals she did yesterday: to carry water in and out, to fire an old oven, to launder, to cook for herself and for the cats and dogs huddling around her. In the evening her energy expires and the roaring emptiness enters into her small world. It seems that Nadiezhda is happy and doesn't hope anything else as her name implies. (Nadiezhda in Russian means „hope“) Sooner or later, one has to pass away anyhow.

NADEŽDA

Režissöör Dali Rust

Portreefilm vanast naisest, kelle maailm piirdub pisikese, temast veel vanema majal ning selles elavate kasside ning koertega. Nadežda kodu kõrval kerkib anonüümne paneelmaja, naise maailm ei ulatu sinnani. Tema päev koosneb vee toomisest ja väljaväimisest, endale ja loomadele toiduvalmistamisest ning aknast väljavaatamisest. FLYING ANNE

21 min. 2010, The Netherlands

Eleven-year-old Anne is a beautiful girl. The kind of girl you can't take your eyes off. And the longer you look, the more you see her 'tics'. Anne suffers from Gilles de la Tourette's syndrome. This makes her body do things she doesn't want to, such as suddenly spinning around or licking everything. Anne sometimes finds it hard to cope with her illness, especially at school. She's afraid that others will bully her or laugh at her. Anne therefore tries to keep her tics in check, although that isn't easy. She prefers 'flying' through life, so you won't notice anything. When flying, she's at her best.

LENNUKAS ANNE

Režissöör Catherine van Campen

Üheteistaastane Anne on ilus tüdruk, aga ta põeb Gilles de la Tourette sündroomi. Nimelt teatud hetkedel ei saa ta valitseda oma keha, see hakkab käituma täiesti arulagedalt. The woods become a place where the normal rules and regulations of society come to a halt and where the children transform their surroundings into magic.

THE LAST TIGHTROPE DANCER IN ARMENIA

72 min. 2009/2010, Armenia

Nominated

Once upon a time, they were the most famous tightrope walkers in Armenia. Now, Zhora and Knayaz are well in their seventies, and can only dream about their past glory. With sparkling eyes, the old men look back on the good old days. The nostalgic stories of the tightrope walkers are endowed with added pathos by the images of the talented Horsvep, dancing against a fairytale backdrop of Armenian mountains and a beautiful sunset. As Zhora's adopted son, he feels an obligation to carry on: "I owe him." If he were to throw in the towel, the age-old tradition of the Armenian tightrope walking family would be lost, and that does not make his decision any easier.

STARRING DAVID

19 min. 2010, The Netherlands

David is a 12-year-old high-flyer. He's ambitious, witty and Jewish. "Well... almost Jewish," he admits. There's just one slight problem: his father is Jewish, but his mother is not, so according to Jewish law he's not Jewish. David wants to become fully Jewish and really belong, but why? What does it mean to be part of the Jewish people? This is a funny, mature children's documentary on faith, antisemitism and identity.

David on 12-aastane kõrgelennulline poiss. Tema isa on juut, aga ema mitte. Seega David pole juut, kuna neil kääb pölvnemine ema järgi. David aga tahab väga olla juut. Miks? Sellele vastab lastefilm, mis räägib Davidi kaudu veel ka antisemitismist ning rahvuslikust identiteedist.

THE WAY HOME

28 min. 2010, France (filmed in Ukraine)

The dissolution of the Soviet Union and the transition to a capitalist economy has torn a gaping hole in the fabric of basic social services in the Ukraine. It has left many of Ukraine's most vulnerable citizens unprotected. The breakdown of the family and of civil society has left tens of thousands of children homeless. The Way Home offers a Dickensian document and heartbreaking portrait of the street children of Odessa.

Režissöör Jaak Löhmus

Lennart Meri elu ja looming oli tihedalt seotud Eesti filmimaailmaga. „Tantsud Linnuteele“ jälgib meistri tegemisi alates 1964. aastast, mil ta kutsuti tööle Tallinnfilmi toimetusse. Lennart Meri kui dokumentalisti loometee algab soome-ugri rahvastest jutustava antropoloogilise filmiga „Veelinurahvas“ (1970), järgnevad „Linnutee tuuled“ (1977), „Kaleva häälde“ (1986), „Toorumi pojad“ (1989) ning „Samaan“ (1997). ITELMEN STORIES

68 mi. 2010, Estonia/USA (filmed in Russia)

The action in the film revolves around an ancestrally used practice of hunting sable by net. Set in rural Kamchatka in the Russian Far East where fewer than 20 speakers of Itelmen remain, the film goes beyond its original aim to recapture the language and the hunting practice that are remembered but no longer in use. Two hunters encounter the wild environs and villages of Kamchatka as a history laden homeland and memories, nostalgia, resignation and hope throughout the film.

ITELMEENI LOOD

Režissör Liivo Niglas

Liitutav lugu häabuvast keelest, selle sotsiaalsest ja isiklikust tähendusest. Filmis kõlab itelmeeni keel sellisel, kuidas seda tänapäeval veel 20 itelmeeni kõnelevad. Filmi tegevus arenev võrguga soobliküttimise ümber. Filmi tegevuspai on Venemaa Kaug-Idas asuvas Kamtšatka maapäirkonnas. Kaks kütti kogevad metsiku looduse stiihiat ja siinsete külade lahust, mille juured on maa ajaloo kihtides. He wants to make a comeback to the big screen, but constantly suffers different setbacks – a major alcohol problem, a bunch of failed relationships and a near-dead professional career. Because of his hard, arrogant and self-centred nature, and his long-lasting drinking periods, Kuku has lost a lot of friends and a huge amount of credibility. The documentary follows his efforts to make peace with the demons from his past, and his pilgrimage to restore relations with his friends in order to gather together the pieces of broken trust so that he can save his career as a film actor and a human being. He nearly succeeds but then comes a new dramatic turn...

A SWARM

28 min. 2010, Estonia

Nominated

It is estimated that over 20 million people speak the Finno-Urgic languages. The ancestors of Finno-Ugrians have lived in Eastern Europe since the late Stone Age and owned territories from the Baltic Sea to Western Siberia. Bee-keeping has been one of the oldest trades, especially for the native Mari population. The Eastern Maris adopted bee-keeping experiences from the Bashkirs. According to Mari traditions, a host offering his mead, has to sip the cup first. Only then will he give the drink to his guests. In local Mari sepulchres over 1500 years old, full wild-hive-beekeeper equipment was identified. Rock paintings found in local caves were evidence that honey was collected by primitive man in these locations long time ago.

SÜLEM

Režissöör Aleksei Aleksejev

Arvatakse, et soome-ugri keeli kõneleb tänapäeval ca 20 miljonit inimest. Ugrilaste esivanemad elasid Ida-Euroopas juba kivijäst peale ning nende eluruum laius Läänemere ning Lääne-Siberi vahelisel aladel. Üheks maride vanimaks tegevusalaks peetakse mesindust, sellelased teadmised võisid marid saada baškiiridel. Kuni tänaseni on maridel kombeks enne mõduga tädetud kannu ulatamist kõigepealt sealts ise rüübata. Mesindusega on maridel seotud palju tavaid, mis on tuntud ka naabritel.

Arvatakse, et mesindusega on marid tegelenud üle 1500 aasta, sest nii vanad on kaljujoonised, mis kujutavad seda magusat eluala.

AMONG HORSES AND MEN

78 min. 2010, The Netherlands (filmed in USA)

In the desert of Nevada, two unpolished worlds come together in a unique program where men and horses meet. Hank Curry: We're not out here to babysit. We want to develop these guys, let them learn something, let them do something. Chris, Dean, Gilbert, Charles, Steven, Bo and Mike are all young inmates at the Northern Nevada Correctional Centre. The men are in the last phase of lengthy prison sentences and are given the chance to enter a new world: they have three months to tame a wild mustang and transform it into a reliable, trustworthy riding horse. Film director Marjoleine Boonstra follows the detainees over the course of this intensive training during which the men see themselves reflected in the eyes of their horses. The documentary captures unique moments of emotion and trepidation of these 'tough guys' standing on the threshold of freedom.

HOBUSTE NING MEESTE SELTSIS

Režissöör Marjolene Boonstra

Põhja-Nevadas asub vangla, kus kurjategijaid kasvatatakse korralikeks inimesteks metsikute hobustele abiga. Mustangi õpetamine kuulekaks ratsahobuseks nõuab kolm kuud, inimese toomiseks õigele rajale kulub aga palju rohkem aega...

BASTOY

74 min. 2010, Netherlands (filmed in Norway)

Bastoy is a state prison island located in the Oslo fjord, Norway. More than hundred convicted men are doing their sentence here: frauds, bank robbers, sexual offenders, gang leaders, assassins. Guards carry no weapons, there are no cells, no cameras or fences. „Bastøy is an arena for the development of responsibility“, the website of the prison promotes. On Bastøy, they don't believe that criminals become better people if you punish them long and hard. If you give people responsibility and mutual respect, there is a bigger chance that they will pick up a better life. The approach seems to work: in Western Europe, recidivism is 60–70%. On Bastøy, it's only 30%. "If you treat a man as a beast it will be a beast. If you treat a man as a criminal it will be a criminal. If you treat a man as a human being it will be a human being." (Bear Heart, 1996)

BASTOY

Režissöör Michel Kapteijns

Bastoy on Norra riigivangla Oslo fjordis. Enam kui sadakond kriminaalkurjategijat elavad siin ilma kongide, trellide ja traataiata. Vangivalvuritel pole relvi ega kaameraid. Norra võimud on seisukohal, et kui kurjategijat kohelda kurjategijana, siis on ta ka tulevikus kurjategija. Kui aga tahad temast saada inimest, siis tuleb kurjategijat kohelda inimesena.

CRANBERRY ISLAND

60 min. 2010, Russian Federation

This is a story about a Russian Munchausen who builds a wind turbine in his yard and puts his beehives on the roof. His wife sometimes argues, sometimes agrees with him and claims that she lives in a paradise. Sometimes she plays the piano with her eyes closed. The village around them is empty almost every resident left for the city or died so our characters live as if on an imaginary island. Is it possible to find happiness far away for modern civilization?

JÖHVIKASAAR

Režissöör Elena Demidova

Mees kui Münnhausen, kes ehitab aias tuuleveskeid ja veab mesipuid katusele. Naine muudkui klimberdab klaverit ning kiidab ja kirub meest. Ülejää nud küla on tühjaks jooksnud või välja surnud, nemad on ainukesed siin sümboolsel Jõhvikasaarel. Kas aga on võimalik leida õnne kaugel eemal moodsast tsivilisatsioonist?

THE DARKNESS OF DAY

26 min. 2009, USA

This is a haunting meditation on suicide. It is comprised entirely of found 16mm footage that had been discarded. The sadness, the isolation, and the desire to escape are recorded on the film in various contexts. Voice-over narration is from the journal kept by the brother of the filmmaker's friend who committed suicide in 1990, intermixed with a range of compelling stories. While this is a serious exploration of a cultural taboo, its lyrical qualities invite the viewer to approach the subject with understanding and compassion.

Idaslaavlast on harjunud sõnاما, et „ükskord tuleb pidu ka meie tänavale!“ Sedasi kiputakse ütlema siis, kui halvadlood lähevad veel hullemaks. Mida teha, kui pidu töesti tuleb? Kui alkohol hakkab voolama mitte enam oja, vaid hoopis jõena?

THE HANGMAN

60 min. 2010, Israel

In the opinion of Shalom Nagar, a pious Israeli Jew, "Man is created to improve himself." He likes to scatter wise sayings about, which are based on the Tenach (the Jewish bible) and which we sometimes hear accompanying images of a cloudy blue sky. "We're in this world as tenants," Nagar says. "The only thing we take with us is our good deeds."

Nagar's destiny crossed with Adolf Eichmann's, the Nazi chief who ruled the transportation of Jews to the concentration camps. Nagar tells how he was a guard at Eichmann's trial, and how he executed him in 1962. This turned out to be a watershed in Nagar's life; after hanging Eichmann, he became very religious.

THE HUMAN FILES

54 min. 2009, Poland

The Nazi anthropologists from the Institut fur Deutsche Ost Arbeit had an important task to do – they were to find representatives of the pure Aryan race in Poland which was annexed by the Third Reich. The scientists went through hundreds of villages, and took thousands of photographs, tests and measurements in order to find Aryans, lost in the sea of Polish blood. The pseudo-scientific documentation has, with passing time, acquired artistic and emotional value. Beautiful portraits, everyday scenes. The heroes of the film reach back to wartime in their memories. Looking at the photos they remember dramatic events from years ago.

INIMKAUSTAD

Režissöör Justyna Luczaj Salej

Natside antropoloogid said ülesande välja selgitada aaria verd inimesed poolakate hulgas. Tehti tuhandeid fotosid sadades okupeeritud Poolamaa külades. See pseudoteaduslik kollektisoon on omandanud tänaseks hoopis uue, lausa kunstilise väärtsuse. Ilusad portreed, kaunid argistseenid. Neid vaadates meenuvad asjaosalistele kohutavad sõjapäevad.

INDIANS LIKE US

55 min. 2010, France (filmed in France, USA)

A group of French people share a passion for everything Native American: every week-end they dress up as Native Americans to entertain at small village fairs in France. But their big dream is to travel to the United States and meet some real Native Americans. When they finally manage to go on a 2 week-drive across the Midwest, they discover the reality of contemporary Native Americans is quite different from their idealized vision: poverty, continued loss of land, and worse, a disturbingly active discrimination by the white descendants of the settlers.

INDIAANLASED NAGU MEIE

Režissöör Sylvie Jacquemin

Grupp prantslasi mängib indiaanlasti. Igal nädalavahetusel panevad nad end indiaanlaste kombel riidesse ning lõbstavad rahvast Prantsusmaa väikelinnade laatadel. Lõpuks õnnestub sel muhedral seltskonnal sõita kaheks nädalaks USA-sse, kokku saama pärisindiaanlastega Keskläänes. Siin saavad prantslased teada, et tegelikkuses elavad Ameerika põlisrahvad vaesuses, nad kaotavad oma esivanematele kuulunud maid, neid alandavad valgenahalised uusasukad.

LUKOMIR - SIX MONTHS OFF

30 min. 2010, The Netherlands (filmed in Bosnia Herzegovina)

Less than 50 km southwest of Sarajevo, in the village of Lukomir, mere 11 inhabitants stay for the long lonely winter. From November until the end of April the villagers are isolated from the outside world. Snowfall makes the dead end dirt road – Lukomir's only access – impassable. The people hold on tight to their only connection to the rest of the world – a phone and television, but in such inhospitable lands even these are challenged by the elements.

MAN-MADE SCENERIES

50 min. 2010, China

Decades back, the early fishing generations could be often seen fishing with their cormorants on the Lijiang River at night. Unlike in those days when the ancestors fished to get food, today's fishing scenes are more "artificial". The fishermen's new lifestyles and their fishing performances directed by photographers create man-made sceneries along the river.

MEN AT WORK

This documentary as a true cultural anthropology study records a daily routine of 35 men working for one of the last remaining governmental institutions in Austria which employs only men. Their responsibility is to look after a 40km stretch of one of Europe's biggest transit routes, the A1. Inspired by the poem of one of the road workers, the film is a sensitive journey to the world of pure masculinity, camaraderie and team spirit.

THE PICTURE OF THE NAPALM GIRL

53 min. 2010, Germany (filmed in Vietnam, USA)

In 1972 a photo of a nine-year-old Vietnamese girl flashed around the world. She was Kim Phuc, running naked for her life, the face contorted in pain, escaping a napalm bomb attack which destroyed entire village she suffered terrible burns. AP photographer Nick Ut won the Pulitzer Prize for his shot – and the click of his shutter saved Kim Phuc's life. He brought her to the nearest hospital and thanks to the publicity she was taken into a special clinic in Saigon. Finally, she settled in the West with her husband and now she lives in Canada with her family. "Sometimes I like to think about the small girl who ran screaming down the street. She was not just a symbol of the war, she was a symbol of a cry for freedom!" says Kim Phuc today. The film presents the story of a world-famous photographer Nick Ut, how it came about – filmed at the original location – and its previously unknown background story. First and foremost it documents how a single picture can change the lives of all involved.

RELOCATION

23 min. 2011, Belgium (filmed in Armenia)

Situated at the point where four countries meet (Turkey, Iran, Azerbaijan and Armenia), mount Ararat is Armenia's most important national symbol, full of mythological meaning and believed to be the place where Noah's Ark stranded. Once part of a larger Armenia, mount Ararat is now located in Turkey. Since 1920, after the Armenian genocide, it's just behind the closed border with Turkey, still dominating the Armenian landscape. But Armenians can only gaze at it with longing.

In 'relocation' the sun rises over the Ararat valley, with the monumental Ararat twin mountains in the back. Starting from a nearly pitch black image the landscape exposes slowly, revealing human life around the military controlled no man's land, buffering both nations. It is the landscape as seen from Armenia, at the closest accessible point to the border with Turkey.

ÜMBERASUMINE

Režissöör Pieter Geenen

Vaade Ararati mäele, mis asub Türki, Iraani, Aserbaidžaani ja Armeenia riigipiiride ristumiskohas. Vaade mäele, kus üleilmse veeuputuse ajal randus Noa laev. Tänapäeval asub see armeenia rahva tähtsaim sümbol Türki territooriumil. Pärast 20. sajandi alguses toimunud genotsiidi on armeenlastel olnud eriti valus neile mitte eriti sõbralikus riigis asuvat Ararati kaksiktippu vaadata.

The 2008 Village stages a series of dialogues between archetypal figures of globalization: French consumer, Amazonian land clearer, Chinese worker, etc. They challenge and accuse one another for the difficulties they are going through and find excuses for the damages they are causing. The globalization of exchanges and difficulties is thereby summarized in a tale on the scale of a village where the collective tragedy is supplanted by the fantasies of individuals.
